

Larry A. Swaney Service Award

Originated in 2002, the Larry A. Swaney Service Award honors people who have worked unselfishly for the success of MCA and the industry. The award recognizes the recipient's contribution and reflects the spirit of Larry A. Swaney, one of MCA's founders and first president, who was committed to promoting communication, cooperation, sharing and unity, as well as fostering growth for a better metal construction industry.

Nominees will be evaluated based on:

- significant and consistent contributions within the industry and MCA, over and above achieving personal and business success
- leadership
- commitment

The nominations should be sent to MCA staff, who will collect and forward entries to the Awards Committee for screening and tabulation. The Awards Committee will then present the MCA Board with a list of screened nominees and the number of duplicate submissions for each nominee. The award will be presented at the following Annual Meeting.
